

WOMEN NURSES NEEDED ABROAD

Training Classes to Be Started Here; Call From France Is Urgent.

A call has come for nurses to meet the demands of the Red Cross in Europe. They will be used to supplement the work now being carried on in France in the care of refugees. In addition, work and similar activities conducted under the auspices of the Red Cross. Women undertaking this work must acquire a speaking knowledge of French.

First aid classes have constantly been in session here and next week classes in elementary hygiene and home care of the sick are to begin under the instruction of Miss Jessie McDonald, the exact date to be announced later. There is great need for women to take this course for service in the home on account of the shortage of nurses resulting from the war.

Upon completion of the courses, those qualifying will be allowed to take the short hospital course of intensive training, after which they will be eligible for service abroad as nurses.

COL. ANDERSON IS MADE LIEUT. COL.

Cols. Howard, Heard, Price and Others Known Here Also Step Up.

Friends of Col. Edward Anderson, recently of the Fifth cavalry, and of Col. H. P. Howard, commanding the 82d field artillery, are elated at the news from Washington of their promotion to brigadier general. Their nominations went to the senate late Tuesday afternoon, just after Col. Anderson had been hidden farewell at the depot by his staff, as he was leaving for Camp Wheeler, Ga., to take command.

In addition to the promotion of these two well known officers, the senate message brought the news of the nomination of Col. Harrison Johnson Price to be a brigadier general. Col. Price is almost an El Pasoan, as he married Miss Leslie Longmeyer here a number of years ago and has often visited here. He is now in France. Mrs. Price is the sister of Mrs. Julius Roterman, of 4210 Cambridge street, and of Carl and Noel Longmeyer, of Caminito. Her mother, Mrs. Chas. Longmeyer, lives with the boys on their ranch at Caminito. Another sister of Mrs. Price is Mrs. Marie Mooney, wife of Mr. James Mooney, cavalry, formerly stationed here with the Second cavalry at Fort Bliss. Mrs. Mooney, as Marie Longmeyer, was a very popular young girl in the El Paso. The Longmeyer family was one of the pioneer El Paso families.

Other Promotions.

Col. J. W. Heard, Col. Edward Silverfox, Col. Chas. E. Kilbourne, Col. C. D. Hartman and Col. J. D. L. Hartman were among others made brigadiers who have friends here. Col. Heard commanded troops at Fort Bliss from year ago and went from there to Honolulu. He has a son who is one of the leading flyers in the army, Maj. Jack Heard.

Col. Hartman was commanding troops on the Mexican border before he took charge of the officers' training school at Camp Springs, Texas, last year, serving there a term.

Col. Edward Anderson, Fifth cavalry, left here Thursday afternoon for Camp Wheeler, Ga., probably to go overseas soon. He had been in command at Fort Bliss for over a year.

Col. Edward commanded the 82d field artillery at Fort Bliss. He is a West Pointer, entering the military academy from Minnesota in 1897. His service had been with the Second, Sixth and 14th cavalry, and he was detailed to the quartermaster corps in June, 1909. He came here from the central department headquarters at Chicago.

Col. Silverfox was a major of infantry, organized the first motor truck unit of the army, and was sent from here to China as a lieutenant colonel about two years ago.

Col. George C. Barnhardt was stationed at El Paso prior to the Villa raid as a captain.

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

(By the Associated Press.)

French and American troops are smashing into the German positions in Champagne and have forced the enemy to withdraw from valuable ground in the hill country, near the Suippe river.

East and west of the Argonne and northwest of Reims, there has been heavy fighting to the advantage of the allies. On the northern sector, activities apparently have quieted down.

Poe Retreats Hastily.

By advancing over the heights of Blanc Mont and the Meuse, the French and Americans placed the Germans in the eastern part of the hill country about Moronvillers in a dangerous position. The enemy retreated hurriedly toward the river.

Between the Suippe and Reims, the Germans are in a deep salient and the indications are that they will retire from it altogether. The German position is being further endangered by the French attack northwest of Reims.

Attack Along Aisne Canal.

Gen. Berthelot in attacking the German positions along the Aisne canal. He has been successful at several points and has reached the outskirts of Bernelcourt. Beyond the canal is fairly open country, which the French could move to take in the rear the enemy salient east of Reims. In the last five days, Gen. Berthelot has taken 2500 prisoners and 31 guns.

West of the Argonne, the Germans are fighting with desperation to stay the advance of Gen. Gouraud toward their important communication lines. Heavy counter attacks were flung against the French south of Reims, but to no avail.

Yanks Press Northwest.

East of the forest, after having taken important positions, the Americans are pressing northwestward into the Kronshild defense system. The German defense is most stubborn, especially on the American right, but on the center and the left, the Americans are successfully following up their gains.

Around Beaurevoir and Le Catel, the British have moved forward for substantial gains, while near Charrion-Verl, the French have taken an important height.

Withdrawal Slows Down.—West of Lille, the Germans continue their withdrawal, but apparently not as speedily as in the first two days. Allied troops are reported within four miles of this important fortress, while the British advanced toward Lille from the west. The British and Belgians in Flanders continue to widen the salient east of Ypres, further menacing the German position in Flanders and south of the Scarpe.

U-Boat Base Abandoned.

Col. George C. Barnhardt is a new branch of the service at Camp Lemoine, Houston, Tex., where he is now stationed.

TWO SOLDIERS TAKE JOY RIDE UNBIDDEN; ESCAPE

Two soldiers, said by the police to be intoxicated, took a Hudson automobile, belonging to P. A. Ferguson, 202 Cravens, standing in front of the Y. M. C. A. Friday night. They drove down Arizona street and at Kansas collided with the rear end of an east-bound Arizona street car and slightly damaged the automobile. Motorcycle policeman J. Wilson took charge of the car and later turned it over to its owner at police headquarters. The soldiers made their escape.

Yanks Meet Resistance.

In the attack made yesterday east of the Argonne forest, the troops holding the middle of the American line met with most determined resistance during the day.

The Americans advanced by a terrific barrage. This bombardment of the enemy lines began at 6:30 o'clock, and shells falling every minute along the German lines. This was gradually increased to 20 a minute at 6:45 o'clock.

Americans Drive Hard.

The American fire had hardly begun to slacken, when the German batteries began to speak and the enemy machine guns commenced to snipe the advance of the Americans. Nevertheless, the troops in the center moved steadily ahead. They fought their way through the trenches, which they had shared for several days with the enemy, and before noon had driven the Germans out of Genes.

In front of Romagne lies the strongest German line in this sector. It is a long, intricate trench system, which is built on a curving line so that each end of it fills and forces that attacks another position. The American troops on the left kept in perfect touch with the center and rapidly cleaned up Genes and Chery and captured Fleville. By noon, they had mopped up La Viergeux and Melin as well as the Grange farm. They had also taken hill No. 24. This advance had been just as rapid as that of the troops further east, notwithstanding the fact that they went over the top of the hill without any artillery preparation and named the German a big surprise.

Tanks Sent Into Fight.

Just south of Chery, the general advance was slowed up by a German counter attack and the American tanks had to be sent for to drive the enemy back.

The Germans have deliberately set fire to the villages of Romagne, Genes, Cornay, Bantheville, Chery, St. Juvin and Marcy. Shells from American guns fell this along the front and ammunition dumps everywhere were exploded when the shells reached them.

On the center of the line fell the bulk of the work. It was here that the deepest advance of the day had been planned. On the right, the troops operating northward along the Meuse met with hardly any resistance at first and easily pushed up to the outskirts of Belleu. German artillery on the east side of the river, however, soon opened up an enfilading fire, which not only affected the extreme right of the American line, but carried far over toward the center. The enemy artillery further west along the line opened up with a barrage, through which one infantry regiment had to storm before the American guns could silence the German batteries.

Bombardment Intense.

All of the areas back of the American line were subjected to a intense bombardment before the attack had been going on very long. After crossing no man's land and getting into the enemy zone, the American infantry was met with machine gun fire which was intense all along the line. The fighting was so bitter everywhere that the number of prisoners taken fell far below the total for the first days of the last two drives. Among those brought in were some belonging to naval units, showing that reinforcements had hurriedly been thrown in against the American attack.

Tanks played a prominent part in the battle, especially on the left of the line near the Argonne forest, where the advance was quietest. These machines were able to get over the ground easily, because the mud had dried considerably. During the
